Subject: Comments on John MacMurray's Essay on US Education

Dear Sir,

I read John MacMurray's essay with admiration, with its genuine concern about our educational system – and the future of this Republic!

I have long liked the idea of a public service corps for high school graduates but it seems to lack traction. Two years is probably overreach. In any event, the weaknesses in our education system need repair, and that will take money, unfortunately beyond what states themselves will do caught up as they are in interstate competition.

Best,

Paul Volcker

Paul A. Volcker, Jr. has a long and exemplary career in service to our Republic.

He was Chairman of the Federal Reserve under Presidents Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan from August 1979 to August 1987 and ended high levels of inflation in the United States. Presently, he is Chairman of The Volcker Alliance launched in 2013 to address the challenge of effective execution of public policies and to rebuild public trust in government. <https://volckeralliance.org>
