

The Passy Press

Letter to the Editor

From: curleywip@undisclosed.com

To: Nick Gardiner enpg@thepassypress.com

Date: March 2, 2016

Subject: Essay Novitski – US

Dear Sir,

I enjoyed as always The Passy Press and the comments on America's Oligarchy. Nobody likes Oligarchy but there is a time and place for change. I think the USA is definitely obliged to address that problem, but I don't think this is quite the moment. We have too many other challenges, with defense, infrastructure, education, politics, and poverty, to be distracted by a major change in the government process. In less stressful times we should tackle those concerns

I couldn't agree more with Joe Novitski in his views about national service which, I firmly believe, helps everybody concerned and strengthens our country in a most effective way

I repeat again how much I admire the Passy Press.

Yours ever,

Walter Curley

Ambassador Walter J.P. Curley, B.A. Yale, MBA Harvard, LLD (Hon) Trinity College, Dublin, was a USMC officer (1943-56), an oil company executive in India and Italy (1948-58), and a Partner of J.H. Whitney & Co. (1959-74). He served as U.S. ambassador to Ireland (1975-77) and to France (1989-93). He and his family live in Manhattan and County Mayo, Ireland.