

The Passy Press

Letter to the Editor

From: Jerry McGee gdmcgee@undisclosed.com
To: TPP Nick Gardiner enpg@thepassypress.com
Date: October 29, 2016 at 5:53:57 PM EDT
Subject: Re: Letter to Editor – George Cadwalader Essay

Dear Sir,

I am not given to speaking out publicly on politics but did take exception to the last line of this essay which seems to undermine the balanced argument for mandatory voting apparently coming from an unbiased source.

When George cites "gun nuts (not second amendment supporters, right) to lifers (not believers in the sanctity of human life) Koch brothers (right) and only mentions Soros as a left counterpoint I smell a bias.

What about a left leaning press, ACORN, an about to be a left leaning Supreme Court and Hollywood (always left) Hell the liberal institutions far outweigh the conservative in this country not to mention the electoral college which distorts popular vote results.

Having said all that, I would only support mandatory voting if it were coupled by mandatory public or military service so voters (especially the young) would develop and appreciate what this country is all about.

Sincerely,

Jerry

Jerry McGee is the former Chairman and CEO of Ogilvy & Mather in Los Angeles. He served in the Ford administration. Currently he is Executive VP at the American association of advertising agencies and a board member of US Vets.